A dark Day-Singular Phenomenon.

A very unusual phenomenon was exhibited on Sunday last. The sun rose in a cloudless sky, though struggling through a thick haze, the usual accompaniment of Indian summer. Towards ten o'clock the haze or smoke increased in density, the sun disappeared, and everything wore a sombre aspect. At half past eleven the darkness had so increased that a person could not see to read in a well lighted room; and thinking that Luna had suddenly possessed the impudence to stand before his imperial majesty, old Sol, we searched our al. The only explanation we are able to suggest for this darkness in mid-day, is a very rare atmosphere, together with clouds of smoke from the burning prairies, resting upon us. A similar phenomena, we once before witnessed in New York we think in the fall of 1833.

This book should be in the hands of every young man o wowan contemplating marriage. Every school-boy, and indeed every man or woman, married or single, should read with care and attention, this truly useful work, as we consider it well adapted to awaken attention to a subject more blighting to body, mind and soul, than any Young or middle aged persons, suffering from dyspep-
